But when it happens in a pen any place, any time. thing that isn't limited to that somehow we are all remind us of the mystery symbol of an inner grace to communion or other religious ment — a baptism, common prayer, marriage. The use of hallucinogenic yet to come? before, all that is and is still connection to all that's gone all at once, and sense a connection to all the past, present and future Grace — and time machine — in baking biscuits.

Randy Regier's TYTON exhibit is on exhibit through Aug. 31 at Salina Art Center, 525 S. Santa Fe.

It's like a dollhouse. The set is eight square feet; the dollhouse under the stage measures about 18 square feet. The set is filled with tiny figures of people and animals, measuring about 1⁄87 scale, or Matchbox car scale, Regier said.

Each tiny figurine was painstakingly painted by Regier with brushes, which are the help of a magnifying device.

Looking into the set, Regier said, “I like looking into a dollhouse. I wanted to create something that would be conceivable in the year 1964. The TYTON (or subculture), which measures about 100 square feet, has been on exhibit through Aug. 31 at Salina Art Center, 525 S. Santa Fe.
